Jack Clarke is a principal and co-founder of The Baldwin & Clarke Companies, a diversified financial services organization made up of five independent, multidisciplinary companies that provide personalized financial solutions to entrepreneurs, professionals and families. Under his leadership, the firm's investment banking activities have generated transactional values in the fields of M&A and capital financings in excess of $1 billion and $700 million, respectively.

His belief that the role of business is to create shareholder value has been the major tenet in his work. He employs this belief in developing Corporate Finance strategies for his clients and negotiating transactions. Jack recognizes the unique qualities of a business, beyond conventional norms, to help its owners develop creative alternatives to bring their opportunities and strategies to the attention of the financial marketplace. He represents client companies in communicating these strategies and negotiating financial transactions required for their implementation.

Jack has a broad industry background with special emphasis on bank consolidations and startups, healthcare and manufacturing. Jack formed The Baldwin & Clarke Companies after completing his studies at Northeastern University and has spent in excess of 40 years developing the firm's robust financial platform. Jack has been a founding director of two highly successful New Hampshire commercial banks, has worked as a principal in several substantial commercial real estate ventures, and has served as a trustee and member of a number of civic and non-profit organizations. He is also co-founder and Managing Director of Triumph Investment Managers, LLC, a management company for two bank-focused limited partnerships that invested in over 40 community banks through-out the U.S.

As the owner of a 300-acre organic farm in Epping, New Hampshire, Jack has invested 40 years into holistic farmland management and proper husbandry on his conservation farmland. He is the co-founder of the Entrepreneur Agrarian Fund which specializes in the acquisition and management of sustainable agricultural land. This is a private equity fund which is establishing a network of livestock based farm enterprises that provide local grass-fed, natural and organic meats to markets of the Northeast.

Jack is a registered securities principal of FINRA.
