Sean has worked in the financial services industry for over two decades, having spent the last 17 years at Baldwin & Clarke. As a senior investment advisor, Sean works closely with Baldwin & Clarke's clients to help them develop, define and systematically achieve their financial goals over time.

Experienced in portfolio strategy, design and implementation, a significant amount of Sean's time is spent aligning highly vetted investment managers to customized client strategies. Prior to joining Baldwin & Clarke, Sean worked as an investment broker for Morgan Stanley. He also worked two years with Citizens Trust Company out of Portsmouth, NH.

“Working and helping people is what this job is all about. What I love about my job is meeting interesting people, hearing about their unique circumstances and discovering ways we can help. It just feels good to solve problems and find solutions for our clients. Investment advice has never been about sales or selling. It is about thinking through situations and presenting practical solutions.”

Sean holds a Bachelor's Degree in Political Science as well as a Master's Degree in Business & Economics from the University of New Hampshire's Whittemore School (now the Paul School).

In his free time Sean is active with a wide variety on non-profits and volunteer boards. He enjoys biking, golf, ice hockey and is an avid skier. Sean lives in Rye, NH with his wife Kara and trusted hound, Abby.
